Loose Marriage Laws

That the marriage laws of Canada be unified, is the plea made by Rev. J. F. Gorman of Ottawa before the Anglican synod in that city. Mr. Gorman has placed before the synod a resolution calling on the federal government to unify the marriage laws of the Dominion. He calls attention to the fact that the province of Quebec does not always recognize marriages contracted in other provinces, and states that several marriages solemnized in Ontario have been annulled by Quebec decrees. On the face of it, Mr. Gorman's complaint seems worthy of consideration, for the cases he refers to establish precedents that will cause much unhappiness and real suffering in the days to come. If a Quebec couple can go to Ontario and be wedded and then go back to Quebec and have the marriage annulled, it is high time that the federal authorities enacted legislation that would ensure the legality of marriages contracted in any part of the Dominion. Loose marriage laws will certainly be the means of developing deplorable social evils, and Canada, as a clean-living nation, should not tolerate them for a moment.—Calgary News.

A despatch from St. John, N. B., says that thousands of barrels of old potatoes will be destroyed in the counties up the river because there is no market for them. The price is the lowest ever quoted there.

Baseball

A very exciting, interesting and clean game of baseball was played in Cayley last Saturday afternoon at 1.30 between the team from Parkland and that of Cayley. Both sides put up a good game, although, if anything, the Cayley boys had the best of the game. The Parkland boys were catching up toward the last, though. A large crowd witnessed the game, and the hope is that the Parkland boys will pay us another visit. Score 15 to 11 in favor of Cayley. Geo. Wickens of Cayley made an excellent umpire.

The line-up was as follows:

Parkland—J. Robertson, R. Broomfield, L. Haynes, H. Hawke, J. North, C. Foster, J. Thompson, K. Brown, N. Wilkinson.

Cayley—A. Duncunna, W. Stewart, Geo. Hill, F. Noyer, R. Kitchen, D. Charleton, F. Carruthers, L. Morton, C. Hicks.

The corner stone of the $100,000 Methodist Theological College was laid at Strathcona on Wednesday, June 8th. This college will be the first building built on the grounds of the Provincial University. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian church has decided to build a Theological College in Strathcona also.

It is reported that the coronation of King George V. will probably take place either on June 21 or 28 of next year.

The Saloon a Bar

"A bar to heaven, a door to hell—
Whoever named it, named it well."
A bar to manliness and wealth,
A door to want and broken health.
A bar to honor, pride and fame,
A door to sorrow, sin and shame.
A bar to hope, a bar to prayer,
A door to darkness and despair.
A bar to honored useful life,
A door to brawling senseless strife.
A bar to all that's true and brave,
A door to every drunkard's grave.
A bar to joys that home imparts,
A door to tears and broken hearts.
A bar to heaven, a door to hell—
Whoever named it, named it well.

The Falling Leaves

The little leaves came tumbling down,
On a cold October day;
As they were turning red and brown
The old tree watched them at their play.

Her only wish was for them to stay,
Although the summer had passed,
She knew the sun had gone away,
And the leaves had to go at last.

She was very grieved to see them fall,
To see them scattered in the dust,
But she knew 'twas nature's call;
Said she, "they'll go, they must."

Under the ground they're lying,
Where they're free from cold and harm,
Patiently, quietly waiting,
Waiting for spring and her charm.

The little buds are peeping at last,
The bright spring days are coming soon,
The ice and snow is melting fast,
The roses will soon be in bloom.

The little leaves at last are here,
The bird's sweetly sings his song,
The gladdest time of all the year,
That all goes right and nothing wrong.

Composed by Cora Barker.

The United States government has engaged aviator Charles K. Hamilton to conduct extensive practical tests in aerial reconnaissance and bombardment. He will drop nitro-glycerine bombs on dummy fortifications, and will do a lot of other things to prove that battleships must be provided with armour-plated awnings and that field forces must in future be required to conduct their manoeuvres under boom-proof cover.

The programme for the raising of $600,000 in ten days for the extension of Y. M. C. A. work in Toronto was carried through most enthusiastically, and after the work was completed the committee continued until over $150,000 was secured for young women's work. The raising of nearly $800,000 in less than two weeks for an enterprise of this sort is one of which the city ought to be proud.

Willows for Prairie Windbreaks

For a quick growing shelter belt or windbreak suitable for the prairie farm or garden, there is nothing better than the hardy varieties of tree willows. The best kinds are the Russian golden, the acute leafed willow and the laural leafed willow. The acute leaf variety seems to be the hardest and is recommended for southwestern Alberta in preference to others.

A belt of willows can be started very cheaply. This variety rots quickly from cuttings, so that it is usual to set the cuttings immediately in their permanent positions. For a belt of several rows of cuttings should be set from three to four feet apart each way. If properly cultivated they will grow very rapidly and quickly cover the ground, so that no further work should be needed after the second or third season.

For a single row the cuttings should be placed from fifteen inches to two feet apart. Shoots from two to three feet should be made the first season. It would be advisable in the following spring to cut these shoots back almost to the ground in order to induce the plants to branch out thickly from the roots and thus make a better shelter. In the third season the new belt should provide good protection for the vegetable garden. Under prairie conditions, when only a single row is set out, cultivation will, of course, be necessary every year to obtain the best results. In order to keep the belt within bounds and also to help thicken it up the ends of the growing side shoots may be trimmed off once or twice during the summer.

The great advantage of the willows in a comparatively treeless country, where many new settlers can ill afford to spend much money in nursery stock, is that they are so easily propagated. Any farmer having a few willows once established on his place can take cuttings from them every spring and extend his planting operations indefinitely without incurring further expense for new stock.—Canadian Horticulturalist
